

Declaration of a contributor to the PLearn software library

Definitions:

1. The PLearn Library is a software library of machine learning algorithms, implementations, and accompanying software tools, initially written by Pascal Vincent. The latest version of the PLearn Library should be accessible from the following Web site: www.plearn.org
2. A PLearn File is any file containing an explicit mention stating that it is part of the PLearn Library (for instance with the sentence "This file is part of the PLearn library" appearing near the beginning of the file, shortly after the copyright notice), as well as any file created in a directory containing a majority of PLearn Files (in this latter case, the file is implicitly considered part of the PLearn library, and should ideally be modified to carry an explicit mention to this effect, for clarity).

Note that the PLearn web site www.plearn.org which gives further details on the PLearn project, is the primary repository of publicly available PLearn Files.

3. By Contribution to the PLearn Library, we mean any new PLearn File authored by the undersigned contributor, as well as any modification or addition brought by the undersigned contributor to an existing PLearn File.

Declaration of the contributor:

In the spirit of free scientific collaboration, and to encourage the advancement of the field of statistical machine learning research, I, _____, as a contributor to the PLearn Library, hereby agree that all my Contributions to the PLearn Library be made publicly available and distributed under the BSDstyle license given in Appendix A.
